1. Description

Bohórquez farm- Bohórquez micro lot 2

The Bohórquez family migrated from Potosí in 1964 to the north of La Paz, with the decision that the future would be found in these hosts. Empty-handed but full of hope, with axe and machete to shape the landscape and cultivate the flower of passion of coffee plants.

The Bohórquez family was part of the Juan del Valle Colony where they also joined the COAINE cooperative, a pioneering organization in coffee field in the 90s in Bolivia, they were trained in the art of coffee cultivation, management and processes. With the desire to improve as a fundamental pillar to carry forward the coffee fruit that would provide the economic support from generation to generation to his entire family.

Starting in 2007, the Bohórquez family planned to process specialty coffees at the Bohórquez Farm, which is located in the Sabaya community, established in agroforestry systems with the aim of preserving nature, in this farm every stage of the coffee process is taken care from handling, harvest, benefit towards storage.
